

Let's Read

Is there value
in reading to children who can't sit still?

Ontario
Early Years

Early Literacy
Created by Susan Ramsay

Let's Read

Is there value
in reading to
children who
can't sit still?

Ontario
Early Years

Early Literacy
Created by Susan Ramsay

Let's Read

Is there value
in reading to
children who
can't sit still?

Ontario
Early Years

Early Literacy
Created by Susan Ramsay

Let's Read

Is there value
in reading to
children who
can't sit still?

Ontario
Early Years

Early Literacy
Created by Susan Ramsay

Answer: Yes!

Story time isn't always quiet time. Children benefit from stories that encourage them to move or interact with the book.

Books For Children On The Go

Barnyard Dance

by Sandra Boynton

Clap Your Hands

by Lorinda Bryon Cauley

The Cheerios Play Book

by Lee Wade

From Head to Toe by Eric Carle

I Can Blink by Kids Can Press

Peekaboo Kisses by Barney Saltzberg

Children experience reading through seeing pictures, hearing the story and moving their muscles . Actions relevant to a story strengthen learning and memory.

Answer: Yes!

Story time isn't always quiet time. Children benefit from stories that encourage them to move or interact with the book.

Books For Children On The Go

Barnyard Dance

by Sandra Boynton

Clap Your Hands

by Lorinda Bryon Cauley

The Cheerios Play Book

by Lee Wade

From Head to Toe by Eric Carle

I Can Blink by Kids Can Press

Peekaboo Kisses by Barney Saltzberg

Children experience reading through seeing pictures, hearing the story and moving their muscles . Actions relevant to a story strengthen learning and memory.

Answer: Yes!

Story time isn't always quiet time. Children benefit from stories that encourage them to move or interact with the book.

Books For Children On The Go

Barnyard Dance

by Sandra Boynton

Clap Your Hands

by Lorinda Bryon Cauley

The Cheerios Play Book

by Lee Wade

From Head to Toe by Eric Carle

I Can Blink by Kids Can Press

Peekaboo Kisses by Barney Saltzberg

Children experience reading through seeing pictures, hearing the story and moving their muscles . Actions relevant to a story strengthen learning and memory.

Answer: Yes!

Story time isn't always quiet time. Children benefit from stories that encourage them to move or interact with the book.

Books For Children On The Go

Barnyard Dance

by Sandra Boynton

Clap Your Hands

by Lorinda Bryon Cauley

The Cheerios Play Book

by Lee Wade

From Head to Toe by Eric Carle

I Can Blink by Kids Can Press

Peekaboo Kisses by Barney Saltzberg

Children experience reading through seeing pictures, hearing the story and moving their muscles . Actions relevant to a story strengthen learning and memory.